"competition will not force the Am erican Hawaiian Steamship Company to send its liners direct to Portland. for that depends solely on the amount the inception of the service it has been the intention to give Portland direct steamers when the trade warrants, states C. D. Kennedy, Portland agent for the fleet.

"Twice since the line began operations direct steamers have been sent here and after fair trials it was decided to use a transfer vessel be tween Portland and San Francisco. Besides there not being a large amount of cargo always available, a transfer steamer has been found satisfactory because she could be handled more rapidly than a larger one and it has not made the slightest difference to Portland firms in receiving or dispatching cargo, for the rates are absolutely the same from here as from other Coast ports.

"There have been times when cargo available at New York for other cities has been shut out to make room for Portland consignments and it must be HONOLULU LODGE, 616, B. P. O.
